

TPC2005

A wireframe-style illustration of a city skyline with several tall buildings, rendered in white lines against a teal background. The buildings are arranged in a perspective view, receding into the distance.

- Are you a new user of TPC2005?
- Want to learn more about TPC2005?
- Thinking about letting new term based/order based works?
- Do you want to unlock the full potential of TPC2005?
- Want to learn about TPC2005 in Practice (avoid the jargon and start putting TPC2005 through its paces)?

In the CIC Guide (2002), Latham said:

'An effective contract can play a central role in partnering. It sets out the common and agreed rules; it helps define the goals and how to achieve them; it states the agreed mechanism for managing the risks and the rewards; it lays down the guidelines for resolving disputes... Creating a contract that can accommodate those aspirations is clearly of paramount importance in the development of partnering.'

TPC2005 certainly addresses the role of a contract in delivering true partnering.

Our training programme can be tailored to your specific needs. Usually we can deliver training over one day and this will typically cover the following:-

- Choosing your Service Provider – Contractor Selection, The Essential Documents, Evaluating Bidders Responses
- The Integrated Team – How integrated are you?
- Why TPC2005? Application and Uses in Practice
- Overview of TPC2005 – The essentials, clause by clause
- Pricing and Payments
- Open Book Accounting
- Continuous Improvement – Theory and Practice
- Managing Risk on Term Programmes
- Dispute Avoidance – Role Play Scenarios
- Mobilisation of a Term Programme

Our consultant base is nationwide and we will work all over the UK.

Cameron Consulting is a specialist consultancy providing partnering, procurement and management consultancy services to the construction industry.

We have established over £½bn of construction and service contracts using the contract forms, PPC2000 and TPC2005. With a wealth of practical, hands-on experience, we can provide your organisation with first class training and support in using TPC2005.

Our training programmes are highly interactive and innovative. We believe that the best form of learning is by doing and so therefore, our programmes involve role plays, scenarios and group tasks to supplement taught theory.

Cameron Consulting also offers other training programmes including:-

- PPC2000 Contract Overview & Practical Application
- Partnership Development Training
- Developing People in Organisations

Tel: 01732 897766 Fax: 01732 523404

Email: info@cameron-consulting.co.uk Web: www.cameron-consulting.co.uk